

Dead Man's Quest?

Here be a game of Pirate Shuffleboard! One-eyed Jack and Peg-leg Richard played a few rounds today. God knows they needed the practice! The outcomes of the games are below, although the last puck from each round is missing. The last shot was always alone in a scoring section. Place the missing shots.

When they had finished, Jack said to Richard something along the lines of these games being the highlight of his morning. They split the yellow pucks from the black, and stowed them neatly away.

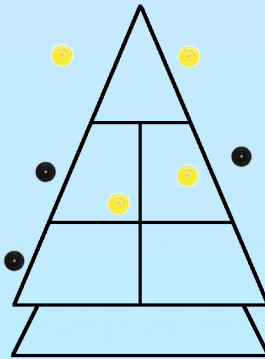

(You can find shuffleboard courts on the ship if you need one for reference.)
